Catholic Schools Guide

Greg Campitelli
Publishing Editor

Welcome to Catholic Schools Guide, 2025 edition.
Each year, our Guide carries a different theme and this year it is 'Change-makers'.

Education plays a crucial role in shaping positive change-makers by equipping individuals with knowledge, critical thinking skills, and a sense of responsibility. It fosters empathy, broadens perspectives, and empowers people to challenge societal norms. Through education, individuals learn to identify problems, think creatively, and develop solutions that improve their communities. It also cultivates leadership qualities, ethical values, and a passion for justice and equality. Ultimately, education transforms individuals into active agents of change, inspiring them to contribute positively to society and drive progress for a better future. At Catholic Schools Guide, we think the future is an emerging and evolving landscape, like education itself, ever-changing and exciting.

Feature Writers

This year's Guide sees an article by Justin Roberts, National Program Director ReLATE, The MacKillop Institute on the importance of supporting vulnerable students. Check out many other editorials on our website.

Artist in Residence Lua Pellegrini - Wiradjuri

The core value of our Guide rests in the continuous quest for change to search for greater equality and celebration of Australia's

First People. Our design team has now permanently incorporated motifs that pay homage to our extraordinary beautiful Indigenous cultural art. This is thanks to the work of a brilliant young Wiradjuri artist, Lua Pellegrini, who works closely with our production team to produce the stunning artwork you see.

"My cover artwork depicts our theme for the year - Change-makers. The artwork features colours that reflect the journey of life, the decisions we make, and the impact we can have on our future and others in our community. Aboriginal culture pays deep respect and wisdom to understanding our past in order to navigate our future."

Facts About the Guide

The Colleges choose to advertise in the Guide, there is no compulsion to do so. Importantly, the Guide is distributed free to families via the Primary School network. It is also available at most parishes and many childcare centres. The Guide is put together by a dedicated team. I am especially grateful to our sub-editor, Master of Applied Linguistics, Stephen Campitelli; senior production manager, Kristy Read; business development manager, Amy Pettifer; and the team at Ellikon Fine Printers, we simply could not put this magazine to press without their professionalism.

Caritas Australia

Catholic Schools Guide is proud to support the work of Caritas Australia. Our Guide encourages all readers to get their school involved in supporting the extraordinary work of this agency.

Dedication

This edition is dedicated to my Italian heritage - my father Arduino who at the age of 30 decided a new life beckoned from post-war Italy and led his entire family to a new land with a new hope.

He was a change-maker.

The Strength of a Catholic Education: Supporting Vulnerable Students

Justin Roberts

National Program Director ReLATE, The MacKillop Institute

Human dignity, social justice and preferential treatment for the poor are central to Catholic beliefs and social teachings. These principles are embedded in every Catholic school, shaping their mission and inspiring families – both Catholic and non-Catholic – to choose a Catholic education. They form the foundation of inclusive school communities where every child is valued and nurtured.

Many of our founders were true change makers, living out these values in remarkable and challenging ways. Daniel Delany risked persecution in Ireland to support vulnerable youth and create a more just society. Catherine McAuley defied societal norms in 19th-century Dublin, serving and educating marginalised women and children. Edmund Rice, decades earlier, broke barriers by providing free education to impoverished boys, dismantling systemic injustice. Closer to home, Saint Mary MacKillop and the Sisters of St Joseph lived among the poor and marginalised, providing education and enduring significant hardship to serve those most in need.

Their legacy endures in Catholic schools today where social justice and inclusion are integral. Students are often empowered as change makers themselves – championing justice, volunteering, and connecting with disadvantaged communities. However, the truest test of our commitment to human dignity and justice lies in how we adapt to support our most vulnerable students.

Responding to Vulnerabilities in Today's Schools

In today's complex world, schools face significant challenges. Mental health issues among young people are rising, with over one in five experiencing high psychological distress.¹ Over 60% of Australians have experienced some form of childhood maltreatment.² Added to this are the lasting effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, natural disasters and increasing inequities – all of which can manifest in challenging behaviours among students.

These behaviours are often misunderstood, but they reflect unmet needs. A student struggling with emotional regulation might display aggression or withdrawal, not out of choice but as a response to underlying trauma or stress. While these behaviours can strain relationships within a school community, they also present opportunities for growth and compassion.

Amid these challenges, Catholic schools continue to lead in innovative, compassionate education that embodies our values.

Change Making in Action

Through my work supporting schools across Australia to implement the ReLATE Education Model (focussed on building school cultures of safety, engagement and wellbeing), I see the extraordinary efforts of Catholic educators and leaders committed to fostering inclusive, trauma-informed environments.

For example, a small rural primary school resists external and internal pressures to exclude students struggling with emotional regulation. Instead, staff embrace trauma-informed practices, adapting to meet their students' needs while modelling resilience and inclusion.

In a large outer-suburb secondary school, staff work tirelessly to support students experiencing "school can't" (previously mislabelled as "school refusal"). Rather than pressuring these students or their families, the school collaborates with them to implement flexible learning approaches.

Then there is the mid-size metropolitan primary school focussed on supporting staff to recover from the stress of supporting students, ensuring that they are well prepared to continue providing safe, predictable and creative support to their students.

As Catholic schools adapt to meet the needs of their most vulnerable students, they show that inclusion, not exclusion, is the measure of true success. These actions remind us of our founders' courage and commitment to those most in need.

A Call to Compassion and Community

When a child other than our own is struggling, it can be tempting to seek their exclusion to protect others. While well-intentioned, such responses undermine the values that make Catholic education distinctive and meaningful. True change makers encourage schools to persist in supporting vulnerable students, recognising the profound impact this has on individual lives and the broader community. By working together – educators, families, and communities – we can ensure Catholic schools remain places of compassion and inclusion. These are schools where the vulnerable are actively welcomed, nurtured and empowered to overcome barriers beyond their control. Maybe, to meet the needs of the day, we are being called to go a step further and actively seek out vulnerable students, as many of our founders did. As Pope Francis reminds us, the stretching out of our hand is an essential step towards the creation of our "educating village."³

To fulfil this mission, we must embrace courage, holding fast to our commitment to vulnerable students, especially when challenges arise. This is our legacy, our calling and our opportunity to be the change makers our schools and students need.

Software that makes life better for schools and families – How?

Choosing the right school is one of the most pivotal decisions a family will make. It shapes a child's academic path and worldview. Naturally, this choice carries hopes, dreams and a touch of anxiety.

Yet the typical admissions process in primary and secondary schools often feels more like a series of logistical tasks— deadlines, school fairs, school tours and endless forms. It can feel disconnected from the deeper significance of selecting a school to align with a family's vision.

What if, instead of being buried in paperwork, families could experience a process that reflects the true weight of their decision?

This is the vision driving Enquiry Tracker (ET)—cloud-based admissions and marketing software, how schools manage enquiries and enrolments. By placing families, not schools, at the centre of the process, software like ET's turns what is often viewed as an administrative task into a family-focused experience.

Schools that adopt a software solution are no longer simply managing enquiries; they are offering families an engaging and intuitive experience that fosters a deep connection to the school's culture. The goal is to turn families into passionate brand ambassadors for the school before their child even starts.

The Top 10 Tips for all Schools to Manage & Grow Enrolments

1. Ensure your website is family focussed and uncluttered
2. Place 4 buttons on your home page each linked to:
 - a. Make an Enrolment Enquiry
 - b. Book a Tour
 - c. Request an Information Pack
 - d. Apply Now
3. Not all families speak English, ensure your forms can render in other languages
4. Offer group and private 1:1 tours
5. Ensure all staff are trained in customer service
6. Keep future families regularly informed via personalised emails
7. Understand if families are new, current or previous
8. Know if the parents are alumni or not
9. Commence a Student Ambassador program to assist with tours
10. Investigate software that can help!

A New Approach To An Old Problem

Bullyproof Australia's program offers a vital solution for schools to combat bullying, creating a safer, more inclusive environment for students. Conflict remains one of the most pervasive challenges in educational institutions, impacting the well-being, self-esteem, and academic performance of affected students. Despite efforts to curb this issue, bullying continues to thrive in many schools, highlighting the need for comprehensive, structured program.

We acknowledge conflict occurs in schools, but bullying can have long-term psychological effects on children. Targets of the behaviour often experience anxiety, depression, and low self-worth, which can persist into adulthood. These negative outcomes can also manifest in physical health issues and difficulties in social relationships. Bullyproof Australia's program helps address these problems by focusing not just on the immediate effects but also on prevention and long-term strategies to build resilience. Through education and early intervention, the program equips both students and staff with the tools necessary to recognize and address conflict before it escalates into bullying.

Furthermore, Bullyproof Australia's program is designed to empower students, teachers, and parents to work collaboratively. The program promotes open communication and fosters a culture of empathy and respect. Teachers are provided with strategies for recognizing bullying behaviours, managing difficult situations, and promoting inclusivity. The program also encourages students to speak out and take ownership of their actions, reinforcing the importance of kindness and respect in all interactions. By creating a strong network of support, the program ensures that the behaviour is not tolerated and that everyone in the school community is involved in creating a positive environment.

The effectiveness of Bullyproof Australia's approach is grounded in its evidence-based methods. The program is designed with input from psychologists, educators, and anti-bullying experts, making it a reliable and proven resource. Schools that implement the program report a reduction in bullying incidents, improved student morale, and a stronger sense of community within the school. In addition, it helps to create a more positive learning environment where all students can thrive, free from fear and harassment.

In conclusion, the need for Bullyproof Australia's program is evident in its ability to address bullying holistically. By empowering students, teachers, and parents with the knowledge and tools to tackle bullying, the program fosters a safe and supportive school culture. This approach not only helps reduce bullying but also ensures that students can focus on learning and personal growth, leading to better academic outcomes and emotional well-being.

CHANGE MAKERS

Casimir Catholic College is a Year 7-12 co-educational College which was established in 1983 from the amalgamation of De La Salle College and St Brigid's College, both of which had been landmark schools in the Marrickville area dating back to the 1930s. The College exists to meet the educational needs of children from Marrickville and surrounding suburbs. It has a rich tradition, steeped in the values and customs of three religious orders: The Good Samaritan Sisters, the De La Salle Brothers and the Passionist Fathers.

The College is renowned for its genuine sense of community, friendly campus, vibrant, diverse and dynamic feel. The College has great relations with St Brigid's Church, Marrickville, and very close connections with our feeder primary schools. CHANGE MAKERS

At Delany College, we aim to transform the lives of our young people so that they can become successful in their adult lives and be dynamic community leaders. Our students are leaders in exemplifying our college motto of "Love, Serve and Hope" and are offered leadership opportunities both in school and the wider community to be makers of change.

We are extremely proud of our strong connection with our local community and have many partnerships with social outreach programs. Students are offered participation in a range of social justice initiatives such as disability awareness campaigns, fundraisers for Papua New Guinea and volunteering for the Vinnies Van and Youth off the Streets. These experiences give students an insight into the needs of our local and global communities. This allows students to foster a sense of pride and respect for themselves and others.

Our students reflect our patrician heritage and our College commitment to preserving our long tradition of hospitality. The community of Emmaus has a rich tradition of care and service, supporting students to become more aware of the world and their role in its future. CHANGE MAKERS

At Loreto Normanhurst our change-makers are dynamic individuals, students, alumnae and staff who, inspired by Mary Ward's legacy, are dedicated to make a positive impact on the world by embodying the Loreto values of verity, sincerity, and justice. Through their actions they strive to create a more equitable and just society, valuing the dignity of all people and working to protect all of God's creation, by living out what it means to be seekers of truth and doers of justice.

Our 'Top Change-Makers' lead by example, inspire others, and drive positive change. They walk alongside people, listening to their stories, serving through meaningful action, and advocating for those whose voice is often silenced. These dedicated individuals make the world, and indeed our community, a place of change and hope. Their stories remind us of the profound impact of the Gospel message of love, encouraging and inviting us to live with compassion and purpose, knowing that the small acts of one person can have large impacts for many.

At St Clare's, we cultivate a vibrant community of young leaders equipped to become change-makers. Our co-educational environment, catering to students from Years 7 to 12, is designed to foster confidence, motivation and a passion for making a difference.

Central to our mission is the development of creative and critical thinkers who excel in communication and collaboration. These essential skills empower our graduates to actively contribute to their local, national and global communities, making meaningful impacts wherever they go. Our social justice team is student-led, placing the responsibility for action in the hands of our students.

We aspire for our students to embody a practical faith that inspires them to serve others, to pursue justice in all aspects of life and to build inclusive communities. At St Clare's, we recognise that the principles of service, reconciliation, and justice are fundamental not only to personal growth but also to societal advancement.

Through our comprehensive curriculum and diverse extracurricular activities, we instil in our students the values of empathy and responsibility, preparing them to tackle complex challenges with innovative solutions. CHANGE MAKERS

Ms Ann Freeman, St Clare's College Principal, reflects on the theme of change-makers:

Schools, at their best, are living, breathing communities where students grow not only in knowledge, but in character. Our role as educators is not just to prepare students for exams, but to prepare them for life. As such, at St Clare's College, we are building change-makers – citizens who will positively shape the world beyond our College walls. That task requires more than textbooks and timetables; it requires connection, compassion and a collective commitment to nurture the potential within each individual.

Here at St Clare's, we aim to foster the kind of mindset that looks beyond individual achievement to consider how one's actions can positively impact others. Change-makers are not born; they are developed through a combination of opportunity, mentorship and encouragement. At our College, we know that every student has the potential to be a leader in their own right. For some, that may mean leading a team or a group; for others, it may mean leading by example, through acts of kindness or by standing up for what is right. Every student has a role to play in shaping a future that is fairer, more inclusive and more sustainable.

The strength of St Clare's College is in its people, every one of us, and together, we are building a future defined by hope, compassion and leadership.

Suki Waddell
College Captain 2024

As the College Captain, Suki championed a culture of inclusiveness and kindness, with the goal of the school becoming a beacon of unity for students. Suki also led significant advancements in sustainability and environmental awareness. Suki's leadership created a ripple effect of positive change – change that went beyond academics and into the very fabric of our community.

Poppy White
College Captain 2025

In 2025, Poppy's leadership will focus on creating an environment where everyone feels valued, ensuring that everyone has a voice and fostering a sense of belonging. Poppy's leadership goal is to continue to drive the positive change that will make our school – and the world – a better place.

CHANGE MAKERS

St Mary's Cathedral College (SMCC) is a place where change-makers thrive. Steeped in faith, education, and service, we are dedicated to developing leaders and contributors who will make a lasting impact on society. Our strength lies in our people – students, teachers, alumni, and staff – who embody integrity, empathy, and purpose. At SMCC, students are not only encouraged to excel academically but to think critically about their role in the world and how they can bring about meaningful change.

From student-led social justice initiatives to alumni shaping industries and communities, SMCC is at the forefront of positive change. Revealed as one of Australia's most innovative schools of 2024, the theme "Change-Makers" highlights the College's innovative approach to learning – activating the city as a classroom through the In Residence and In Partnership programs. This approach is central to our Middle School (Yrs 5-8) curriculum and extends into the Senior School (Yrs 9-12) through bespoke Stage 5 electives.

Working alongside our Leader of Pathways & Partnerships, staff have developed programs that connect classroom learning with real-world industry experience. By bridging the gap between education and the world beyond, we are empowering students to explore opportunities that prepare them for success in an ever-evolving world.

CHANGE MAKERS

Change Maker, often described as: "someone who has found the self-permission to advance change for the good of all, someone who is intentional about solving a social or environmental problem, motivated to act and to be creative." For that to occur a school must engender confidence among its community – students, parents, staff – confidence to add less change for good, to try new things, to lead and to inspire.

Each of the people profiled here does just that. Some have led robust change by having the confidence to enter politics or to start a business; other change has been nuanced and subtle – for instance, by transforming the boarding experience of our girls or by undertaking ground-breaking scientific research to advance the nation's health. In each case, change has been led "for the good of all" and underpinned by the ethos and encouragement of the College and drawing on the essential values of the Rule of St Benedict that enabled the change maker to act.
